

MERRISEL E liquid

Complementary feed

Composition: 1 litre of the product contains: Dietary additives - vitamins: vitamin E 17 g, trace elements: selenium 0,5 g; technological additives - emulators: 68 g; Carrier - water; Moisture content - 914 g.

Type and size of the package: PET bottle with a cap of HDPE with a capacity of 100ml.
HDPE bottle with LDPE cap with a capacity of 1000ml.

Properties and action: The active ingredients - Vitamin E and selenium act synergistically in the body of animals perform multiple functions and their deficiency apart from impeding growth can also lead to the development of various types of disease in animals. Vitamin E is a natural antioxidant that protects cell structures against damage and is also essential for normal metabolism of muscle tissue and proper functioning of the reproductive system. Selenium, in turn, participates in the metabolic redox processes and acts as a cofactor of glutathione peroxidase. Both selenium and vitamin E affect the immune system stimulant.

Indications: The product is particularly intended for young animals for the prevention of muscular dystrophy, exudative diathesis, encephalomalacia, weakened immunity and fertility disorders and lay.

Dosage: Farmasel E is used with drinking water for all animal species:

Horses, cattle: 3-5 ml / animal/ day

Calves, foals: 3-5 ml / animal / day

Fattening pigs, sows and lactating sows: 3-5 ml / animal / day

Pigs, sheep, goats: 2-3 ml / animal / day

Poultry: 0.2 ml/1 litre of water / day

Recommendations for the proper administration:

In order to follow the correct dosing, read the information in this leaflet.

Special precautions for storage and transport: Store below 25° C. Protect from light and moisture.

Special precautions for disposal of unused veterinary product or waste with this product: Product should not be disposed of in household waste. Ask a veterinarian how to dispose of it. These measures should help protecting the environment.

Expiry date: 2 years.

Other information: For more information about this veterinary product, please contact the Marketing Authorization Holder.